THE PROBLEM

The synchronicity between the physical and the animated clips is a little off. This document sets out the design decisions that fix it: what the footage should feel like, where the cut should land, and which shots go back to camera.

THE METHOD

Read it against the timeline, in order. Every note is one of three things — a look, a cue, or a fix. The cues are written as the lyric or the image that triggers the cut, so the animation and the film meet on the same frame.

THE FEELING

Grainy. Blue in the room, pink in the desert. Chaotic on purpose, never smooth by accident.

THE LOOK

Effects to apply across the whole film, before any cut is judged.

Grain. Make the clip grainy — just grainy enough to give it a trippy, chaotic feel and tie the animated scenes to the physical ones. They should look like they were recorded on the same bad camera. REF: Travis Scott, “Franchise”.

Blue in the room. Add a blue tint to the physical clips. It makes the room cooler and more cinematic, and it complements the pink of the animated scenes beautifully. Overall the video should still feel a little warmer, not colder.

Blur, sparingly. Use cinematic blur in the physical clips only where it helps the trippiness — a smear, not a filter. REF: Dave Meyers’ dolly-out on Kendrick Lamar’s “HUMBLE.”

Transitions. They are currently too smooth, and a lot of the creativity is lost in that smoothness. Make every transition an intentional part of the video — a glitch, a flash, an image that covers the frame. REF: Cole Bennett’s flash cut on Lil Yachty’s “TESLA”.

More chaos.

TIMING

The note that matters most.

Pay attention to the motion in relation to the song. When she dances, when Ink moves, make sure the movement aligns with the bounce of the beat. Slow down or speed up clips as required. There is a timing issue and a disconnect right now, and this is what fixes it.

HOW TO READ THE TIMELINE

Each entry below is a point in the cut. The line in bold type is the cue. Anything in a box is a fix that has to go back to the timeline before the next pass.

01 OPEN

The video starts in the animated scene. Birds flying about and chirping. “AfriqueBoy Entertainment” pops on screen, followed by “INKREECE. ONYEOMA.”

02 THE SONG STARTS

When the song starts, display “CAPPUCCINO STUDIOX”. A cryo chamber pops out of the ground with the avatar inside.

03 THE CHAMBER

He steps out, empty paper bag in hand, then the chamber returns empty. He is seated on the chair overlooking the scene.

04 THE GHOST — FRONT VIEW

A ghost flies past and the camera angle switches to view avatar Ink from the front, seated with a ghost playing in his arms.

05 FIRST CUT TO FILM

The ghost flies past the camera and transitions the scene to the physical clip of Inkreece seated with Joy, chatting to him.

06 “I GOT FRIENDS THAT CAN FOLLOW YOU”

This is the cue to glitch the scene between the animated and the physical as she walks towards the painting. The ghosts are his friends. The glitch should read like snapshots being taken — of the animated scenes, and of her walking away. She stops in front of Ojukwu.

07 THE OTHER GHOST

The other ghost transitions the scene to the animated clip of Inkreece seated, watching the scene. Then glitch back to Inkreece in the physical, looking at the cactus image on the wall.

08 THE BOOK

Inkreece stands up, walks towards the image and opens his book. The picture transitions — one by one — until it envelopes the whole screen, starting from the underlying image of the book page. This takes us to the animated scene of him lying on the grass with a ghost in his arm.

09 BACK TO THE DRAG

The other ghost flies past the camera and transitions back to Joy dragging Ink to the dance floor. Eliminate the scene where she hands him the cup completely. Start this cut from the dragging.

> Fix the clip. Parts of the ceiling are in frame and the camera angle is off, and the black hole at the top of the surfboard must not be visible. Zoom in to get there, cut, and retain the aspect ratio.

10 "WHO MADE THE RULES?"

This is the cue to transition out of the scene into the animated clip of Inkreece rap dancing. Align "Who" with the finger pointing and cut straight into the avatar making the same sequence of motion. Match the camera angle to the camera position in the physical scene so the transition is seamless. Stay in the virtual until the chorus comes in.

11 "SHOW ME YOUR —" (THE CHORUS)

The cue to go back to the physical clip of Inkreece dancing with Joy. Use the "Onyeoma is a genuine love song" plate to transition: let it cover the whole screen. Make this dance scene slow and intimate.

12 THE BTS PASS

The transition out of this scene works. Remove the paper background and focus more on the BTS images of Joy. The miming scene works perfectly — but to transition to the next scene it should end on a close-up of avatar Ink in the same position as physical Inkreece in the following shot.

13 TOWERING

It transitions into physical Inkreece towering the camera before he returns to his seat.

> Fix the clip. The camera angle is wrong and there is too much ceiling in the shot. The AC does not need to be visible at all. Zoom in, cut, and retain the aspect ratio.

14 CUT THE SQUAT

Eliminate the short scene of Joy squatting in front of Ink. She walks towards him with the cup, and every sequence of motion from there aligns until she pulls him up to dance with her.

15 THE HAND IN THE AIR

As she throws her hand up in the air, glitch to avatar Ink standing with the ghosts dancing around him. Set the animated scene in relation to the physical shot: the cactus in the same position as the Ojukwu painting, the ghosts in place of Joy.

16 THE SOFA

Bring it back to the physical and let it flow until they are both seated on the sofa. When she leans into him, transition back to the animated cut: the front view of avatar Ink seated, with the ghost leaning into him the way Joy did.

17 OUTRO / LOOP

Glitch back to the outro: the black ghost flying out of his arms, circulating him, then dancing to the beat near the cactus. Keep the current outro shot and roll credits. The "CAPPUCCINO STUDIOX" logo pops up with birds chirping, just like the start, to make a perfect loop.

THE REFERENCES

The grade and the cuts were measured against four films.

Travis Scott, "Franchise". The grain standard: bad camera, good film.

Kendrick Lamar, "HUMBLE." (Dave Meyers). The dolly-out. Blur as a smear, never a filter.

Lil Yachty, "TESLA" (Cole Bennett). The flash cut. A transition you are meant to see.
